Mission Statement

The Federation for Children with Special Needs provides information, support, and assistance to parents of children with disabilities, their professional partners, and their communities. We are committed to listening to and learning from families, and encouraging full participation in community life by all people, especially those with disabilities.

Background Statement

In the spring of 1974, a group of Massachusetts parents and advocates gathered around a kitchen table to discuss how they could organize to better assist children with special needs. From this modest beginning, the Federation for Children with Special Needs (FCSN) has since grown into a nationally recognized 501(c)(3) organization that annually serves more than 40,000 Massachusetts families and their children with special needs. The Federation was the nation's first non-profit parent information and training center for special education under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). The Federation's mission is to provide information, support, and assistance to parents of children with disabilities, their professional partners, and their communities. The Federation has managed dozens of state and federal projects over the years, and currently manages fifteen projects providing a variety of supports to families raising children with special needs in the areas of special education, children with special healthcare needs, parental involvement, early intervention, basic rights, inclusion, transition/self determination and improved educational outcomes. The Federation works to reach out to financially and culturally diverse families in need of supports and services, and plays a critical role in providing information and training to parents and families of all communities, including those in the African American, Latino, Brazilian, Haitian, Chinese, North African, and Somali communities, as well as many others.

Impact Statement

During the past year, the Federation received 16,000 phone calls and emails from parents seeking assistance, conducted 600 workshops for over 9,000 parents and professionals at 100 locations throughout the state, and hosted an annual conference (with workshops conducted in four languages) attended by over 900 families and professionals.

Guided by a 5-year strategic plan, in 2016 the Federation seeks to:

- Provide high-quality information, resources, and training to over 45,000 families of children with special needs, special healthcare needs and children at risk, and their professional partners in Massachusetts;
- Reach out to culturally, linguistically and economically underserved families in need of our supports and services;
- Promote the active and informed participation of parents of children with disabilities and special healthcare needs in shaping, implementing, and evaluating public policy that affects them;
- Work collaboratively with our professional partners to ensure that all children are able to fully participate in their schools and in their communities;
- Build a diverse, sustainable funding base to support our work.

Needs Statement

1. In order to maintain our infrastructure and current programming and continue to expand our capacity to reach underserved populations, the Federation, as part of its current strategic plan plans to build and diversify its funding base. We are seeking general operating support to assist us in this goal.
2. The Federation's Community Outreach and Empowerment Project was developed to assist underserved families in finding information, locating and accessing services, and navigating state agency services. General operating support and program support will help us to sustain this work.
3. The Federation presents approximately 75 trainings onsite annually. We would like to acquire the equipment necessary to outfit our 2 training rooms with podiums, ceiling mounted LCD projectors/Flat screen LCD monitors, presentation quality laptops and independent sound systems.
4. In addition to onsite trainings, the Federation would like to enhance its capabilities in the areas of webinars and podcasts. The organization would like to upgrade its presentation equipment for future broadcasts, including podcasts, by purchasing newer recording equipment (microphones, headsets, laptops).
5. The Federation plans to build and diversify its funding base with a goal of increasing private funding sources to a total of 20% of its budget (currently 15%). General operating support will assist us in building the capacity of our Development efforts.

The Federation for Children with Special Needs evaluates all of its programming on an ongoing basis. Given that our programming is primarily funded through government grants, we adhere to the extensive reporting requirements of those grants, and evaluation is built in to each project. Goals and specific objectives are set for each of the projects described above, and the Federation uses qualitative, quantitative, formative (ongoing), and summative evaluation strategies to assess the impact of all of its work. Staff members track and evaluate all Federation activities through: computerized data intake system that tracks parent calls; evaluations of all of our workshops, trainings and materials through pre and post evaluation, and random-sample surveys of parents attending workshops and trainings; hits on our website, which is a content rich resource for families; follow-up surveys to assess the quality of our services over the long term; focus groups.

Examples of Program Success

Recently a Portuguese-speaking parent whose child has ADHD called the Federation requesting support. The child was on a 504 plan, which was not working. The child's behaviors disrupted the class, and the child was not learning. The Federation guided the parent in requesting an evaluation to determine eligibility for special education services. The evaluation was done, however the school's finding was that the child was not entitled to an IEP. The Federation's Portuguese Outreach Coordinator was able to attend the meeting with the parent and helped the parent get a reversal of the school's decision. Today the child has an IEP and the school has created a behavioral plan to teach the child to comply with the rules and gain organizational skills. The child is now making effective progress and doing well in school.

Examples of Program Success

A Vietnamese parent contacted Family TIES, needing support for her child with autism. The parent received the support and information she needed, and then became aware of other Vietnamese families in the Greater Boston area who also had autism. The parent attended the Federation's Parent Consultant Training Institute and built her own understanding of the educational opportunities available for her child. She began working to support these families, helping them find resources in the community, running a support group for the families, connecting them with other project staff (Parent Training and Information Center) to help with education supports and services. Recently, this parent wrote to Boston Mayor Tom Menino, requesting his help and support through the Mayor's Autism Initiative and Autism Task Force, in addressing some of the overwhelming needs of Vietnamese parents of children with Autism in the Boston Public Schools.

Examples of Program Success

As a parent of a child with complex medical, behavioral and developmental needs, Cristin reached out to the Family-to-Family Health Information Center years ago to get information on how to obtain necessary services to help her child. Through the family navigators who staffed the phone lines and the community she found on the Mass Family Voices list serve, she learned of opportunities to grow her advocacy skills. Today, she is actively engaged in the design, implementation and evaluation of health care systems as part of the Mass Family Voices team, and supports other family leaders to do the same. As part of her work, she recently launched a virtual network called the Mass Family Voices Wisdom Council as a way to connect and build capacity and skills among family leaders in the Commonwealth.

Examples of Program Success

In spring of 2012 a call from Malden came into FCSN's MassPAC office – can you help us get our Special Education Parent Advisory Council (SEPAC) back on track? New people bring new ideas but it is sometimes hard to let go of old ways. After a few phone calls and an on-site meeting with MassPAC, the SEPAC was ready to move forward and choose the Federation's APPLE Institute to bring together all of the SEPAC parent leaders with the Special Education Administrator to create an action plan for the school district. During the three day APPLE workshop, the team outlined several goals and objectives to engage the Malden SEPAC in outreach to families of children with special needs. The SEPAC Executive Board recently met with Malden's Mayor and the Superintendent of Schools to discuss the SEPAC's mission and programs for the Malden community. The SEPAC has also established an online presence with a website and Facebook page. Definitely back on track!
