The natural movement of the horse, the individualized sessions and the committed therapy teams at Lovelane allow children to progress in multiple areas. Emotional, social and physical growth are all part of the child’s overall treatment plan. Every minute in the saddle matters for every Lovelane child.

For Alex, the bond with his horse is non-threatening and easy, creating a natural, open communication and trust that carries over and impacts his other relationships outside of the barn.

Riding Trav allows Daniel to experience the freedom of movement outside the confines of his wheelchair.

Diagnosed with cerebral palsy, Mirabelle works on strengthening her core and trunk, addressing her primary goal of walking independently.
